

U3A Port Hills End of Year Newsletter December 2019

Greetings Members

I thought it appropriate to send a quick e-mail prior to our last meeting and luncheon on Wednesday.

Wednesday is an occasion to recognise the more needy citizens of Christchurch by making a generous donation to City Harvest. All donations are distributed by City Harvest to charities and churches throughout the city.

Some members have asked for the access address for the U3A Online website so that they can peruse or download the study notes in preparation for the three proposed courses next year. The website address is no longer available on the U3A Port Hills website as the address is confidential to members and not available to the general public. Login details are:-

(Login details available to members only)

Click on our Courses/independent study and scroll down down the available courses. You will see 'My Life Story' and 'Writing Family History'. To open click on the title. These two study units are an accompaniment to the course we intend to run on writing family or personal life history.

A second course is 'What is Wisdom?' This short study course will run twice a month for three months.

Finally the last proposed course is Human Biology. Don't be put off by the title as this looks to be a fascinating course.

A reminder that books can now be brought along to the Sales Table. We will offer them for re-sale for three months. This avoids collecting the number of books we had in storage at Hoon Hay.

The committee have agreed to hold the subscription for 2020 at $30.00. This will be ratified by members at the AGM in February.

I have asked Graeme Ell to forward this newsletter as he is able to send all e-mails at the same time. Unfortunately my server is not so accommodating and I have to send out the letter in batches of 10 which takes me much longer.

After the meeting on Wednesday, those who have paid for lunch will make their way to the Cashmere Club where there is plenty of available parking.

If you can't make the meeting on Wednesday morning, I hope you have an enjoyable Christmas and summer break.

Regards
Wendy
